High-licensed Omaha sends four students to the State university and eighty-one convicts to the penitentiary.

Highlandville, Mass., town council has given $200 to the W. C. T. U. of that place to found a library and free-reading room.

There are thousands of square miles in Arkansas without a gun shop, owing to the right women have to vote on this question. The civilization is not all in the east.—Robert Greer, Mammoth Spring, Ark.

A correspondent to the Union Signal writes: "Our right royal speaker and friend, Col. Geo. Bain, addressed a most magnificent audience a few days ago in the famous Metropolitan church, Washington, D. C. He took occasion, as he generally does, to pay a well merited compliment to the W. C. T. U., by speaking of the grand work done by our organization in securing prohibition for the Dakotas. As soon as he had finished, Senator Pickler from South Dakota, who was in the audience, at once arose and said he wished to add his testimony to that of Mr. Bain concerning the work of the W. C. T. U. in Dakota, and then said in earnest tones, if it had not been for the W. C. T. U. the cause of prohibition would have been delayed in my state for thirty years! 'These words coming from so grand a man as Maj. Pickler, and a republican, form a tribute of praise which we highly value.'"

In speaking of the recent decision of the federal supreme court, in the Iowa case, the Chicago Herald says: "This decision is only another proof that the prohibition movement, instead of being out of place in national politics, can never be effective without federal co-operation. Ever since the war the general government has been the real saloonkeeper. It has been the great dispenser of liquor licenses, and has continued to issue them even in states that have enacted prohibition laws. The federal courts in these states have held that these licenses cannot be offered in state courts in proof that the licenses are selling liquor. The government has even opened beer saloons of its own at several of the soldiers' homes. Now, the supreme court decides that any state has a right to ship liquor into a prohibition state without molestation or seizure. Evidently no state can hope to execute prohibitory law until all the states and the general government unite in the movement. SCOTT'S PRESS.

Mr. Isaac Dwight had his barn blown down last Friday by the wind and in the falling of the barn had a fine horse killed. Mr. L. V. Dix and Mr. M. M. Dougherty had their barns totally wrecked by the same wind. Fences and fruit trees were blown down and destroyed.

The following is from the Fort Smith, Arkansas, Times. A motion for a new trial was denied:

The jury in the case of Dr. Wm. C. Hatler, who was charged with the murder of Sloan in the Cherokee nation twenty years ago, yesterday returned a verdict of manslaughter. The case was one of the most hotly contested that has come up in this court for years. A good deal of surprise and comment has been caused by the verdict.

Dr. Hatler is not in jail, but is boarding at one of the city boarding houses accompanied by a bailiff.

The following persons have been appointed as census enumerators for this, Cole county:

Brazito—Peter Vogel.

Jefferson City—John E. Murphy.

John N. Steininger, Chas. L. Wells, and Adam Glebb.

Ossage City—Louis Schirmer.

Centertown—James N. Stapleton.

Russellville—Richard Huff.

State penitentiary—Chas. Oldham.

Jefferson City.

It is estimated that a law requiring school books to be purchased on open bids for three or five years, would save to each county in Missouri from $1,000 to $10,000 per annum. The people should see to it, therefore, that all candidates for the legislature this year are pledged to vote for such a measure.—Globe-Democrat.

A special from Fort Smith to the Tribune of this city says:

Judge Parker in the United States district court denied the motion for a rehearing in the Hatler case. The sentence will most likely be confinement in the government reform school at Detroit, Mich., and the term cannot exceed three years. The only recourse now for Dr. Hatler is a pardon from President Harrison.
